- Paper and pen for scorekeeping
- (Optional) Bingo chips or similar for variation

Directions:

1. Give each player a game strip and a rock.
2. Ask players to place their rock on one of the numbers on the strip.
3. Roll the die. Players who have a rock on the matching number get one point.
4. Play 20 rounds. The player with the most points at the end is the winner.

Variations

- Give players 20 chips that can be used to bet. Players must bet at least one chip, but they may bet as many chips as they want. For example, the player might place their rock and three chips on the number 5. If the roll is a 5, the player gets one point and three more chips. The player loses the three chips if the roll is not a 5. Play 10 rounds. The player with the most chips at the end wins. Players that run out of chips are disqualified.
- For an easier game, use two dice. Players get a point if their rock is on one of the two numbers on the dice.
